Dear Bill:

I am writing to mention to you the availability of a book, having to do with investigative sources, which has been put out by the Agency and which was written by a representative of this Office. The book is entitled, "Where's What" and has been distributed rather widely throughout investigative agencies in the Washington area.

Although the book is classified "Confidential", this classification is not because of any intelligence information contained therein, but rather because of the sources contacted by [REDACTED] the author. STATINTL
It occurred to me that the book might be of some value to certain of your Officers, since basic investigations are much alike whether conducted by Federal Investigators or Police Officers.

If you are interested in having a few copies of the book, please let me know and I will be glad to make them available to you for your retention.

Sincerely,

[REDACTED]
Howard J. Osborn
Director of Security
